DAMAC
LIVE THE LUXURY

Welcome to the future

This is the city that has it all. Home to over 200 nationalities and easily accessible from just about anywhere in the world, Dubai boasts pristine beaches, rich Arabian heritage and five-star luxury living. High-end shopping, dining and entertainment are complemented by year-round sunshine and a safe family-friendly environment.

In addition, with such ease of doing business, a stable economy and tax free status, it's no wonder Dubai is one of the world's favourite destinations.

Hospitality in Dubai

14.9 million overnight visitors in 2016, recording a healthy 5% increase over 2015.¹

10,000 new hotel rooms added to the market by the end of 2016.

Statistics continue to cement Dubai's position as one of the most visited cities worldwide (ranking fourth, just after London, Paris, and Bangkok); and one of its leading destinations for international visitor spending.

There will be a steady increase in the supply and demand of hotel accommodation required ahead of Expo 2020 Dubai, with 25 million tourists and business visitors expected, 70% of which will come from overseas.² Certainly the future is looking incredibly bright for the Dubai hospitality market – both leading up to the 2020 mega event, and far beyond.

Why invest in Dubai

Strategic location

Dubai sits at the crossroads of Europe, Asia and Africa, bridging time zones across East and West and providing easy access to many of the world's fastest growing emerging markets.

Safe and very sound

A recent report carried out by the World Economic Forum (WEF) has revealed that the UAE is the third safest place in the world in which to live, just behind Finland and Qatar.

Highly liquid property market

Logistically, it's very easy and relatively inexpensive to invest in property in Dubai, whilst the following points ensure the property market remains highly liquid:

- Some of the highest rental yields in the world
- Strong capital appreciation
- Readily-available financing options
- Zero tax

Global awareness and Dubai's credibility as a desirable lifestyle destination have resulted in a multi-national customer base. Further, a well-developed broker base means resale of property is easy too.

Stable currency

The UAE dirham being pegged to the long-established and globally recognised US dollar means the value of the currency has enjoyed balance and growth, as well as stability to the import and export trade.

World-class infrastructure

Dubai's vision to invest heavily in its transport, telecommunications and industrial infrastructure also make it an incredibly attractive destination for international businesses.

Ease of business set up

Free Zones also give companies 100% foreign ownership; exemption from all import duties; 100% repatriation of capital and profits; and freedom from corporate taxation.

Open and free system

Open economic policies, minimal government control and private sector regulation have played an instrumental role in attracting Foreign Direct Investment (FDI).

How to buy Property in Dubai

Foreign nationals and companies, wholly or partly owned by them, have the right to purchase / own property in many parts of Dubai, without the need for any type of residency or similar permit.

Procedures

The procedures to transfer ownership of property purchased with cash are as follows:

- Buyer and seller agree terms (with / without the assistance of a real estate broker or solicitor)
- Buyer and seller go to DLD (with NOC) to officially transfer ownership; including:
 - Registration fees paid and other duties
 - Purchase price paid in the form of a manager's cheque, payable to the seller on the date of transfer
 - New title deed issued in the name of the buyer
- Agreement of sale or Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) signed and deposit paid (usually 10%)
- Developer issues NOC (fee payable) providing all service charges have been settled in full

If the seller has a mortgage, they must show their mortgage is paid up in full, and show a No Objection Certificate (NOC).

Time frame

30 days

From start to finish of an average cash property sale and purchase in Dubai. (This can take longer if the seller has a mortgage.)

Documents Required

- Original title deed
- Original passport

Costs

There are certain standard costs incurred when selling and buying property in the UAE. The following fees apply to the sale and purchase of real estate in Dubai:

NOC fee – between AED 500 and AED 5,000, payable to the developer, usually by the seller, subject to mutual agreement.

Real estate agent's commission – for the most part, paid by the buyer and usually 2% of the purchase price.

Registration fees – calculated at 4% of the purchase price plus administrative costs (currently does not exceed AED 5,000).

Mortgage registration fees (if applicable) – calculated at a rate of 0.25% of the registered loan amount and paid to the DLD.

Building service charges – buyers are required to pay building service charges in advance to the developer / owners association. These are on the basis of the participation quota of their property.

Additional fees – payable to the offices of the developer and the DLD in order to discharge a seller's mortgage.

Tax

The UAE laws currently place no restrictions on the number of properties a foreign national can own and no tax implications on property ownership. Foreign nationals are encouraged to seek independent tax advice from experts in their home countries to know how their ownership of property in Dubai affects taxation elsewhere.

Inheritance

Generally, the principles of Sharia Law apply to Muslims regarding inheritance issues. For non-Muslim foreign nationals, executed wills are accepted and the laws of succession in the country in which they're a citizen are upheld by the UAE Courts.
